Every piece is thoughtfully conceived by our team of artists and hand produced in Los Angeles.

RETRO SILKSCREENS

eclipse - grey, blush + orange, teal, blue

Inspired by retro geometric compositions, these silkscreens use the interplay of simple shapes and bold colours to make an impact. The transparent ink creates a watercolour effect, with each overlapping shape making a new shade of the colour. Nostalgic yet refined, these silkscreens are the perfect addition to any room.

IMPRESSIONS

Made from layered pumice stone and oil paint on canvas, the Impressions collection focuses on texture and three-dimensionality. Depth is created on these monochromatic artworks through the exaggerated highlights and shadows cast from the rough surface, guiding your eye around the painting.

The Radiant Squares are quite literally “radiant” with their glass-like finish that catches and reflects light. Made from resin and natural pigments, these artworks are colour studies, analysing the way different colours interact and how light affects colour.

With an emphasis on geometric shapes and blocks of solid colour, these silkscreens on handmade papers evoke feelings of calm and tranquility. The minimalist compositions make these artworks the perfect complement to elements of design, playing with colour and line.

An experiment in form and material, our mixed media works focus on the layering and interaction of papers and textiles. Creating playful contrasts through shape, line, and texture, these pieces will elevate any space with their neutral tones and unconventional materials. Surprising elements and interesting patterns give this series a unique quality and collected feel.

MODERN INDUSTRIAL COLLECTION

interior design by Brooke Wagner Design, photography by Ryan Garvin

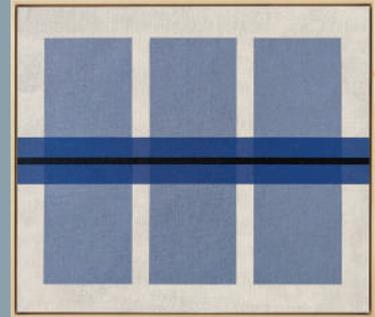

The Modern Industrial Collection employs straight lines, intersecting shapes, and functional forms to create minimal compositions inspired by the architecture of the early Bauhaus movement. These structural designs are modernised with bright colour pairings and natural canvas backgrounds, adding texture and giving the pieces an elevated feel.

WOVEN ABSTRACTS

interior design by Katch Design Collective, photography by Hugo Landa Garcia

Featuring coloured yarn woven onto handmade Nepalese paper, the Woven Abstract Collection combines traditional craft materials with modern geometric designs to create timeless artworks. These symmetric designs are reminiscent of Aztec line drawings with their repeated diamond shapes, triangles, and parallel lines, as well as with their earth-toned colour palette. With a focus on unique materials and intersecting lines, these panels are the perfect addition to any space that needs some colour and texture.

Repurposing a material known for its functionality and practicality, the Burlap Cubes are unique yet familiar due to their adoption of burlap as an art substrate. Curved abstract shapes fill the composition, with cut-outs from the shapes counteracting one another and creating balance.

BURLAP CUBES

The stark black ink contrasts with the taupe burlap, making the light brown shapes pop off the surface and adding a modern flair to typical burlap.

The highly textural woven burlap transforms an ordinarily flat silkscreen into a three-dimensional artwork with depth, elevating the quality of the silkscreen. Pushing the boundaries of what can be used for silkscreening, the Burlap Cubes are experimental and different from anything you may have seen before, introducing a new material to fine art.

JAPANESE MATCHBOOKS

By repurposing vintage matchbook covers, we created the Japanese Matchbook Collection, featuring a mix of Japanese design and western Art Deco-style illustration. Dating back to over 100 years ago, these prints are truly timeless, connecting the past to today with their graphic design and bold colour.

Expressive and light, the Watercolours series calms with its pastel colour scheme yet energises with dynamic brushstrokes. Printed on handmade Moenkopi Washi paper from Japan, the overlapping fields of colour and layered strokes give these prints dimension while creating movement in the composition. The natural mulberry and hemp fibres embedded in the paper give the prints subtle texture, while the paper's translucent nature softens the image, enhancing its colours.
